Data Protection / GDPR Policy

Data protection is about ensuring people can trust you to use their data fairly and responsibly.

If you collect information about individuals for any reason other than your own personal, family or household purposes, you need to comply.

As with other policies, it is the responsibility of individual Sradagan committees to ensure that they are following the new GDPR regulations which came into force in May 2018.

Data protection laws ensure that personal information is handled appropriately and securely by organisations including businesses, government agencies and charities. Any arts organisation, charity, community group or membership organisation has a legal duty to follow these laws when gathering, storing, sharing or processing this data.
